The Holiday Season

is over and business is getting down to a normal state, while we are getting down to business. The Christmas trade kept everything on the jump, but now we begin to think of offering inducements for the January trade.

Fortunately, we are one of the few stores who find themselves with a salable stock after the holidays, and we have just the kind of goods the housekeeper wants to start the new year with. Perhaps the window shades are worn out, and the improvement would cost very little if you were to get from us now.

Hartshorn Window Shades
We will make them to order in any size or color.

Wicker Furniture

is well adapted to this climate, because it is cool. No other establishment in Honolulu has the stock of this ware that we have, and our prices are reasonable.

Rockers,

Straight back chair, couches, etc. We also call attention to the excellent assortment of

and will be glad to have you call to see them.

PRINCE AND HIS BRIDE

be witnessed by Mr. and Mrs. Parker, the bride's stepfather and her mother, and a dozen of the intimate friends of the family. The ceremony will be informal, but a reception to friends will be held afterward. Miss Campbell is tall and has a perfect figure. She is a brunette, with much of the Hawaiian grace and loveliness which have made the women of the Islands noted for beauty. She is barely nineteen years old and will bring her husband a dot of over a million dollars. Her father was James Campbell, the Hawaiian planter who died about a year and a half ago, leaving $4,000,000 to his wife and children.

WILL SEE THE QUEEN.

Miss Campbell has traveled abroad and is highly educated and accomplished. In Honolulu she was the reigning belle last year, and at the Mardis Gras ball of 1901 in that city was chosen queen. She has magnificent jewels, and former Queen Liliuokalani, with whom she is a favorite, has given her some of the most precious treasures of the monarchy.

In Washington the Hawaiian party will spend a week or two, and then will return to San Francisco and sail for Honolulu. There Prince David, who is a nephew of the late Queen Kapiolani, widow of King Kalakaua, has a palatial estate, and with his bride's fortune added to that of his own riches, they will be lavish entertainers in the prodigious fashion of the Islands. In Washington the party will stay at the new Raleigh Hotel, and will pay their respects to Queen Liliuokalani, who is domiciled at the Ebbitt House.

The Call had the following announcement on the day of the marriage:

MISS CAMPBELL A BEAUTY.

Today is an important one to Miss Abigail Campbell and Prince David Kawanakoa. Their wedding ceremony will be performed at high noon at the Occidental Hotel. "If all the world were lovers," and all the women love a bride, Miss Campbell will get her share of admiration. Yes, more, for the usual comment, "she will make a beautiful bride," can be sincerely passed upon her. It would be difficult to find beauty more fascinating. Miss Campbell has some Hawaiian blood in her veins, which accounts for her rich black hair and olive complexion. Her eyes are the deepest, softest, dreamiest brown and her figure tall and willowy. Her gentle languor and beautiful English lend the real charm to her manner, while her sorrows are dreams in themselves. For the Hawaiian has been reared in luxury and enjoyed every advantage of travel and education. The gowns for her troupe she recently selected in Paris, and they are certainly worthy of a princess. Having had a real look at the bridal gown, I may say without exaggeration that it is a poem. Renaissance lace over white chiffon and taffeta, with all the artistic touches of a Parisian hand, ought to deserve the admiration they will be accorded today.

It is whispered that Sam Parker, who has just married Miss Campbell, is the next governor of the Islands, and as the bridegroom will visit Washington at once there will be a strong party with a bright future.

The Bulletin published the following the day before the marriage took place:

DAVID AS A HOST.

Prince David Kawanakoa of Honolulu and Miss Abigail Campbell of San Jose, whose betrothal was announced the other day, will be married Monday at the Occidental Hotel. Miss Campbell's mother was married during last week to Colonel Sam Parker of Honolulu. The ladies are the widow and daughter of the millionaire, James Campbell, who was a ship's carpenter and made his money in the Hawaiian sugar plantations, and who was kidnapped and imprisoned for ransom in a house on Central Avenue, this city, by Robert Winthrop. Winthrop is now serving a life sentence at San Quentin for the crime. Prince David is a nephew of the late Queen Kapiolani, widow of Kalakaua. Kapiolani was a daughter of Kamehameha, who was known as Cupid, and David, who is the elder and who would have been king after Liliuokalani had not the Islands been annexed to the United States.

David and Cupid have an estate called Kapiolani. The estate is mortgaged for $20,000 to the Campbells, so that the marriage of the prince with Miss Campbell will be a benefit to the estate as well as a great happiness to the prince. David has been a gay young man at his home in Waikiki. At a single luau he has entertained 1000 persons, and it is an ordinary event for him to have 100 guests at the same time. He was a democratic candidate for Congress from Hawaii against Colonel Sam Parker, the republican candidate. The rivals were always intimate friends and during the campaign they spoke so well of each other that Robert Wilcox, the candidate of the native party, slipped in and was elected. Prince David, his bride to be, her mother and Colonel Parker are all at the Occidental.

COMMERCIAL NEWS

WITH each mail from the Coast now there comes news which is making the feeling in business circles better. Not only San Francisco, but Eastern cities have an interest in the securities of the Islands, and the result is that there is a growing demand for the better stocks. Of course there will be, for a long time, some feeling that when the prices here are so low there is not the values claimed behind the various shares, but this is only a passing feeling and the revival which is certain to come here will reassure the Mainland folk, and there promises to be a most successful year.

The greatest feature of the market seems to be Olaa, which stock has been constantly on the advance since the mill was set to grinding. This plantation has been improving along the lines marked out to such an extent that the confidence felt in it has given the investors a greater desire for the shares. Thus there is in one brokerage house an order for $10,000 worth of the stock, but it cannot be filled. There is so little stock in the market that the would-be purchasers are debarred from achieving their ends. One man began to buy as soon as the stock was seen to be advancing, and he secured something in the neighborhood of 200 shares, but he was after scores where he got dozens, and is still buying, although the last sales of the week are at 45 for the assessable, and 113 for the paid-up. This plantation has been shown so far to be doing better than it was expected, and as the estimates were of the conservative kind, there has been a better feeling brought about.

The second feeling of strength was felt when the holders of Waiialua found it impossible to sell as low as last week, and demanded and got as high as 56½, but with success, the holders began to look higher, and the asked price was left at 58, when the last call was made yesterday afternoon. There is not a great deal of this stock on the market, and the holders are very slow to realize in it, as their loss is too great. An estimate made by one of the brokerage firms puts the average price of this stock at par, and the holders are not willing to make as great sacrifices until it is absolutely necessary.

Although the price of Ewa declined during the week to 23½, and there were some sales at that figure, the price went up as the week's end neared, and the result was that one order was filled yesterday afternoon at 23½. The holders of the stock are of the opinion that the prices will be a little better later. The reason for the apparent weakness of this favorite share seems to be that it is the only one of the group which offers a chance to realize under pressure without loss. While the price has been much higher there has been such a squeezing of the holders of various stocks that they have been forced to make good wherever they can, and the result is that they are selling the stock which is best able to save them from loss. Hawaiian Sugar, which is strong at 29, is one of the outside stocks which is viewed in the same light. Ewa has been the most consistent dividend earner, and with Waimanalo, has occupied the unique place of a stock which has not been forced out of the line as regular producers of a payment.

Hawaiian Sugar is in very good shape, and the feeling in San Francisco as shown in the regard paid to Makaweli, is growing better. The price there has advanced to 28, which is only one dollar below the ruling rate here. The annual meeting of this company will develop with an issue of bonds for the purpose of betterments, and the plantation will be placed where it will be one of the most progressive on the Islands. It is proposed to give to the manager, Mr. Baldwin, every opportunity to improve, and while the amount of the bonds cannot be exactly set forth now, there will be sufficient to permit of the placing of needed ditches for the irrigation of the new areas to be brought under cultivation, and the mill will also be enlarged so as to take care of the cane which will be produced upon this virgin soil.

Among the other sugar stocks on the market, Oahu cannot be said to be strong at 98, Kahuku can be bought for 24, while Waimanalo is right where it was, at 160. The sales of sugar shares for the week were: Thirty Kihel, 10; thirty Waiialua, 56; thirty-five Onomea, 23; ten Honomu, 130; fifty Olaa, assessable, 55; twenty-five Olaa, paid, 113.

Locally there has developed more interest in Rapid Transit. The shares were changing hands right freely at 90, not all the shares being reported as sold. The buyers are insiders, the old residents who have the reputation of seeing a good thing, and they have been able to get a part of what has been ordered for their accounts. The fact that there will be no delay in completing the circuit of the city by running the line out to Waikiki, has had a good effect, and the shares will continue to be in demand in excess of the offerings. There were fifty sold at 90, according to the exchange reports.

REAL ESTATE AND BUILDING.

The most important thing in the city real estate market has been the closing of the deal by which the construction of the building at Hotel and Alakea streets will be completed. The leases of the ground have been taken over by J. J. Eagan and Dr. Philip Frear, and they have now succeeded in financing the project. The last step was taken during the week, when the Bishop Estate was induced to accede to a request for an alleyway to the rear of the building, from Alakea street, which makes accessible the court at the back of the building, which will be 23 feet in depth.

The building will be two stories in height, of pressed brick, light color, and will be outfitted for two storerooms below and offices above. The frontage is 63 feet, and the rooms will be each 90 feet in depth. This will make ideal rooms for retail stores.

There is an added request for residence sites, the demand being for small lots. The publication in the Advertiser of the fact that the Rapid Transit would at once complete its line to Waikiki has increased the number of persons looking for something like a small lot in the closer suburbs. The Pawaa district has been of the first to benefit by this action, and there is a prospect that there will be some good transactions very soon.

As showing what has been done in closer real estate, there was a sale in the King street tract, above Pihikoi street, a rear lot, which went for $1,400. There are other inquiries which indicate a good feeling all along the line. There is little doing in city business property, but the outlook is very good.
